- Recognize the need to train 4 specific areas pertinent to EMS/Fire in self-defense; Mental, Street, Media and Court-room.
- State the need for reporting incidents of violence, directed at provider, to supervisors and law enforcement.
- Understand what is "reasonable" in self-defense
- Describe the DT4EMS Verbal Skills Formula used to diffuse a potentially violent encounter
- State the need for practicing good physical fitness and diet (healthy lifestyle) to better perform EMS/Fire duties and better survive a violent encounter.
- State how Good Customer Service is essential for appearing non-aggressive on all calls for service and is actually a self-defense tactic
- Understand the use of the Assault Response Form to document a violent encounter
- State the difference between a "Patient" and an "Attacker/Aggressor"
- Demonstrate the physical skills taught during and EVE4EMS/Fire course approved for escaping a violent encounter
- State the need to change the culture of EMS/Fire that it is not "just part of the job" to be a victim of an assault.
- Understand how the providers body will respond, physiologically, if faced with a violent encounter
- State the importance of understanding local, state and federal laws regarding self-defense
- State the calls for service/patients that present the most likelihood of aggression toward EMS
- State proper responses to the scene, actual location and patient immediate area
- Demonstrate the Assessment L of DT4EMS and its use as a Good Customer Service and scene safety tactic
- State how "tactics" of prevention are more important than physical skills of escape
